I saw an associate that is setting up a database on parking spaces including: # spaces, location, ownership status, etc. etc. He thinks that the project is pretty complex and may justify an Access DB. (He thinks there are too many variables to be well considered by a more simple Excel DB.)

I'm not sure that his project will proceed.

But I thought of you and your financial modeling experience. Do you know Access? Would you be interested in doing some work on my associate's parking space model?
